

Name : Taisuke MORI
Current Position:                  Chief Physician, Department of Pathology, National Cancer Center, Japan Hospital                  Visiting Professor, Department of ENT, Juntendo University, School of Medicine                  Visiting Professor, Oral Cancer Center, Tokyo Dental College  E-mail: tamori@ncc.go.jp
Brief Introduction
I serve as the Chief Pathologist in the Department of Diagnostic Pathology at the National Cancer Center Japan Hospital, where I am responsible for head and neck malignancies and provide specialized pathological diagnoses. In addition, as a Principal Investigator in the Molecular Pathology Division of the National Cancer Center Research Institute, I lead research projects focused on genomic and transcriptomic analyses.
Education
DMD, Tokyo Dental College                  Ph.D. Candidate / Ph.D. (Pathology), Graduate School of Medicine, Keio University
Professional Experiences
Assistant professor, Department of Pathology, Keio University, School of Medicine                  Visiting Fellow, Department of Pathology, Stanford University School of Medicine                  Staff scientist, Division of Molecular Pathology
Research Interests and Areas of Expertise
Molecular pathology, tumor biology, and genomic profiling of head and neck cancers	